

Our second day trip of the year took us to Leeds.

We left Rustons early morning and made our way there, on what was a chilly but dry morning.

Once there the members split up into two groups. One group was the party who wanted to visit the Royal Armouries at Leeds and the others, they wanted to make their day up of shopping and possibly some sight seeing.

Our group made our way to the Royal Armouries where they have on display all manner of weapons and warfare items on display. The weapons started way back from the time of early Britain, through to the present day.

It wasn't restricted to just Britain though as the displays showed weaponry used by many other countries throughout the world, again from way back in time to the present day.

We were even treated to a two man display of soldier battle techniques used at a time when there were just using swords and staffs.

Once we had got our fill of the Royal Armouries our group then ventured into Leeds city centre and wandered through the main streets, making our way to the famous Leeds market.

Here you will find fruit and vegetables galore. Also meats and pastries wherever you looked.

The choices were amazing. It is such a large market that it's easy to miss out on seeing certain sections of it.

We eventually found ourselves a refreshment stop at one of many Wetherspoons pubs in Leeds, where else, where we had a lovely meal and a couple of beers to finish off the day.

Eventually heading back to the coach, we made our way back home to Lincoln.

A really enjoyable day trip out.
